Lead Hazard Company/Supervisor Issues

Recently a general contractor bid a lead abatement job for a Housing Authority. Then this company contracted with a sub-contractor to do the actual abatement activities. Neither of the companies was certified by the Department.

Both of these companies are considered in non-compliance. This is a violation of the Kentucky lead law effective as of July 97. The law states that a person (company) who proposes to do or conduct lead-hazard abatement in residential structures or child occupied facilities Kentucky must certified by the Department for Public Health. A Departmental response will be forthcoming.

THE DEPARTMENTAL ENFORCEMENT RESPONSE POLICY IS AS FOLLOWS:

When determining the penalty assessment, the Environmental Lead Program, Division of Public Health Protection and Safety (DPHPS) contacts the Agency Office Legal Council, for advice on penalty assessment. The council staff provides direction toward taking the appropriate compliance action, etc. Specific penalty sections are indicated in the "Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 211.900. These refer to violations of KRS 211.9063 or 211.9069 as being a Class A misdemeanor and violations of KRS 211.9075 as being a Class D felony. The enforcement response would depend on the type of violation(s). Other considerations would be made in determining the extent of prosecution and potential penalties. These are:

- Did the company knowingly and willfully violate the law?
- The degree and extent of harm to the environment, to the public health, and to private property resulting from the violations.
- The duration and gravity of the violation.
- The cost of rectifying the damage.
- The prior record of the violator in complying with Kentucky Environmental Lead Law and regulations.

HOUSING AUTHORITY OFFICIALS

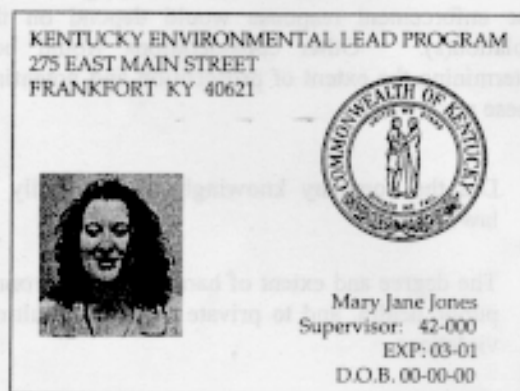

Note that both assessment and abatement activities require "Certification" under new HUD rules, which become effective September 2000.

"Certified" means that the Kentucky Department for Public Health has determined that the individual has taken the appropriate courses, 3rd party examination and has the required experience. The individual is issued a certificate with an assigned number. In addition the individual should have a certification card in his or her possession.

An example of a certificate is:

An example of an identification card is:

The presence of a course completion certificate does not indicate that an individual is "certified". Only that the individual has completed one of several requirements.

- The prior record of the violator concerning compliance with other federal or state lead laws and rules as indicated in KRS 211.9071.
- The cost to the State for investigative, and conduct enforcement efforts.
- Other costs directed toward cleanup.

CERTIFICATION AND ABATEMENT ISSUES

At this time the Department for Public Health laws and regulations do not cover public buildings, unless it is considered a child occupied facility. This Department requires neither certification nor an abatement permit.

However, such lead removal activities fall under rules of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). In addition, the disposal of materials would fall under the regulatory requirements of the Kentucky Cabinet of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

In addition some job specifications and proposals require the use of "certified" companies and individuals. It is also possible that "certification" requirements are also dictated by the funding course.

Report Review and Evaluation

The agency staff have been involved in the review and evaluation of inspection, screening, and risk assessment reports which have been provided to this agency according to standards and procedures identified in 902 KAR 47:100.

A brief review of all reports is made when they are received by this agency, however an evaluation system based on regulatory requirements has only been recently implemented.

On completion of this review each certified individual will be contacted via mail to indicate the agency findings and make recommendations if appropriate.

Training Provider Issues

Expiration of Accreditation

The expiration of accreditation of several training courses will occur this year. The requirements for re-accreditation are indicated in 902 KAR 47:090 Section 14. Be aware that there is a time frame for re-accreditation and this must be met in order to be applicable for the reduced fee amount of $150 per course.

VERY IMPORTANT**

Repeat from last issue - Non-English Speaking Individuals Applying for Certification by this Department -

- Note that Kentucky has not accredited any Spanish or other non-English courses therefore we can not provide initial certification for Hispanic individuals who do not comprehend English. Course interpreters are not acceptable.
- Accredited training providers are responsible for indicating this condition to companies or individuals who wish take their courses and issuance of course completion certificates to non-English speaking individuals will be grounds for suspension of training course accreditation.

Cancellation of Courses

- During the past year this agency has attempted to conduct a course review at locations where proposed courses were to be held to find out at the last minute that the courses were canceled. This has cost the agency time and travel cost.
- Be advised that future regulatory changes will be made to allow for recovery of agency funds spent on these occasions.
